担当教員	Malcolm Ross Swanson
授業概要	This course is a continuation of English Communication I which you studied in the first semester. As well as the English you have been studying for many years, you have also had a semester of university English study. As you have learned, studying a language is much more than learning grammar and vocabulary—it is about communicating, which will be the main focus of this course. This course will work on building your speaking and listening skills, plus we will look at some of the culture behind the English language. Each week, we will focus on one topic, and you will talk with other students, ask questions, share ideas, and hold discussions. You will be expected to participate fully in English to get the most out of these classes. In addition, you will need to prepare for your next classes using the material the teacher gives you.
授業形態	対面授業				授業方法	Task-based learning, groupwork, discussions, presentations
学生が達成すべき行動目標
標準的レベル	Students taking this course will work towards these "I can..." goals: - I can talk about myself. - I can express my opinions. - I can listen to other people, and respond. - I can use the vocabulary I have learned in authentic ways. - I can participate in group work using English. - I can communicate on a given topic in English. - I can use and respond to classroom English. Students must be able to use the English learned in these classes correctly. They must be able to hold a conversation on the topics used in class. They must be able to participate in groupwork and other activities in English. They must understand and use classroom English where appropriate.
理想的レベル	An ideal student for this class should be able to use English when working with both the teacher and other students. They should actively seek opportunities to use English in any interactions. They should also participate fully in all English Department activities outside of class as these will be carried over into class activities.

学生へのメ ッセージ・ コメント	After at least six years of English study, you already have a strong foundation in English. Your vocabulary, grammar, and general English knowledge will help you to participate fully in these classes. This course requires a strong commitment to both study and use English inside and outside the classroom. All students will be required to complete all homework assignments, and take part in English Department activities outside class. As well as the coursework, keep pushing yourself to build your vocabulary and general skills, particularly in listening and speaking.
